中環監察主席潘焯鴻指出：「香港限聚令措施，由原本相對容易明白，漸漸就像食肆ABCD餐般，越搞越複雜。從業界不甚認同相關限聚措施，可以看到政府在決策的諮詢和溝通工作上的不足。如果與外國相比，外國會預先設定不同情況下的措施，讓公民對政策有預視性和相對容易明白。香港抗疫清零目標一直海市蜃樓，與限聚令一脈相承，難以捉摸。」

Jason Poon, Chairperson from the CHINAT Monitor, observed, “Hong Kong’s gathering restrictions have gradually become more and more complicated and incomprehensible, just like the ABCD zones and packages for restaurants. The industry’s hesitation in accepting the restrictions is an indication of the government’s lack of consultation and communication in the policy making process. In foreign countries, the government would put forward the different scenarios of policy implementations, for the citizens to foresee and understand the policies more easily. Hong Kong’s goal of zero infection has always been a mirage, and just like the restrictions on gathering, everything is so difficult to be understood.”
